Petty grievances/Too much litigation (Unit 1)

Introduction: Petty cases increased dramatically in the modern world.

Body 1: Those who are for:

- working courts
- organizing society
- protecting rights
- living in peace

Body 2: Those who are against:

- clogging up courts
- increasing the culture of blame
- preventing judges caring for important cases
- prevent officers look for real criminal

Conclusion: I am against petty cases.

Petty cases increased dramatically in the modern world. Many people are for having too much litigation in our courts. Many others are against petty cases, and they have their own reasons.

Those who are for petty cases say that there are courts in the society. These courts must be working. They add that much litigation shows that we are living in an organized society. In addition, having laws protect us from evil and let us live in peace.

On the other hand, those who are against petty cases say that petty cases clog up courts. Furthermore, they prevent judges from caring for important cases. They also prevent officers from looking for real criminals. Likewise, too many cases increase the culture of blame in our society.

Overall, it is now clear that we should get rid of these petty cases. As for me, I am against them. We need to solve our problems cordially amongst us. It is much better to seek the elders' advice if we have minor problems.

On the other hand, those who are against banning speedy drivers state that some of them have their reasons to drive fast. Some of them are obliged to drive fast in residential areas because of emergency cases. Moreover, they might be late for work. Also, some of them may have mechanical problems or are in a hurry.

In conclusion, it is now clear that we should advise fast drivers to drive carefully to save themselves and to save others. We must raise their awareness to drive safely. They should be given a chance to drive safely. I am for banning them if they repeat their actions.

Helen Adams Keller was born on June 27, 1880 in Northern Alabama, USA. She was a clever child and began talking even as a six-month old baby. During the first nineteen months of her life, she admired natural scenes like the broad green fields, the bright sky, the tall trees, and colourful flowers. But her happy days did not last long, for in February 1882 came an illness which closed her eyes and ears, affected her speech, and drove her into a world of darkness and silence. The illness was diagnosed as an acute congestion of the stomach and brain. Chances of the child's survival were low.

One morning, however, the fever left her as suddenly as it had come. There was great happiness in the family, but no one, not even the doctor, suspected that the child would be a victim of multiple handicaps. Gradually, little Helen got used to the darkness and silence that surrounded her, till one memorable day, March 3, 1887, when Miss Anne Mansfield Sullivan came to Helen's house. Anne began to teach Helen to communicate by spelling words into her hand, beginning with "d-o-l-l" for the doll that she had brought Keller as a present. Helen also learned from and was grateful to Miss Sarah Fuller, who taught her to speak.

Today, Helen's name stands as a symbol of patience and courage. She was a young lady of enormous intelligence, who struggled through life till she was awarded the bachelor's degree from Radcliffe College. Further on, she devoted her life to helping blind and deaf people. She travelled around the world giving lectures and visiting special schools for blind and deaf people and wrote a lot of books and articles. She played a major role in focusing the world's attention on the problems of the blind. Helen Keller died on June 1st, 1968.

Reading Comprehension (2)

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions:

Dear editor in chief,

I am writing this letter in response to the latest issue of your magazine in which you asked readers to share with you some ideas for saving the planet. Everybody should bear responsibility in keeping the Earth a safer environment. For example, we should have special collection points in every neighbourhood or area so that we could keep our household waste for recycling instead of sending it to landfills. Also, we could make use of our gardens waste like grass, twigs, and leaves as a valuable source of nutrients by turning it into compost.

In my country, the government has come up with a solution to the issue of waste. It has assigned a committee for holding a waste management conference. The committees have listened to the ideas of various leading industry companies which could showcase their waste and recycling machinery and services.

Deforestation is another problem that our environment is suffering from. Trees are being cut down in an increasingly careless way. This has negative effects because floods wash away the nutrients in the soil and the rate of oxygen that the tree leaves release into the atmosphere decreases. Deforestation makes the land arid. This is known as desertification. Waste management, deforestation and desertification are only a few examples of environmental threats that we are coming up against today. It is our responsibility as citizens to keep up with the most recent ways and inventions to overcome these threats.

However big questions remain about whether the world's nations will act and, ultimately, about whether my letter will matter or not. We can't just play a waiting game where we bet on future technological miracles to emerge and save the planet.
